Welcome to Barnet LMC

Welcome to Barnet LMC's new look newsletter. It's been some time since we have sent out a newsletter but we aim to get better! We have been very busy working on your behalf since the last one!

The LMC is working to support general practice a time of great change within the NHS. With the changing roles of NHSE, CCGs, Local Authorities, developing federations and the way in which commissioners' contract with general practice. It makes it even more essential for the LMC to provide the link between grass root GPs, the federation (as the provider) and the CCG, NHSE and the Local Authority (as the commissioners). GPs need to feel engaged, and be engaged with the changes. The LMC is dedicated to represent general practice; supporting GPs and the practice teams in providing quality care for our patients - it really is a unique organisation! We would welcome more input, so invite constituent members to attend a meeting or two as observers; please contact us as below.

GPs State of Emergency

At the Londonwide LMC's annual conference, Michelle Drage announced the Londonwide campaign in response to the current crisis in general practice. GP State of Emergency aims to:

- Provide practices with resources to help them appropriately manage their workload.
- Help practices to engage with their PPGs - we need our patients to understand the limitations within which we work and to become the public voice for our practices.
- Raise awareness of the reasons behind the current GP crisis.

Londonwide LMCs have launched www.gpsoe.org.uk this website contains the resources for practices to use. Please feedback to Londonwide LMCs on what other resources you would find useful for your practice to: GPSOE@lmc.org.uk.

Hospital Test Results – Use the templates

NHS England, in conjunction with the Academy of Royal Colleges, has recently published guidance on standards for the communication of patient diagnostic test results on discharge from hospital. Of interest is the standards in section 3 which have been developed from the key principles. The key point is: 'the clinician who orders the test is responsible for reviewing, acting and communicating the result and actions taken to the GP and patient even if the patient has been discharged'.

The GPC has added templates in line with this guidance so please use them when sending inappropriate requests back. What is of interest is that these letters are now for EMIS & SystemOne as well as Vision in word format. Chaand Nagpaul, chair of GPC, has also written to CCGs, not just to clarify the situation, but also to ask CCGs to put in place a service alert system for when the secondary care provider is not complying with these standards.

An existing Quality First template to reject inappropriate requests to follow up hospital investigations
A new template to send copies of test results back to hospitals to ensure/confirm they have been actioned by the requesting clinician
A new template to let the CCG know if the above principles are being breached, so that appropriate commissioning levers can be applied.

Cessation of Antenatal Rubella Susceptibility Screening

Rubella is considered to no longer be a common disease of childhood and is defined by the WHO as having been eliminated in the UK. This is a result of the Mumps Measles and Rubella (MMR) vaccination programme (however there are concerns that if MMR vaccination rates continue to drop then cases of rubella will reappear.

The announcement on cessation of the screening in pregnancy was made in January this year and from 1 April 2016, pregnant women in England will no longer be offered screening for rubella susceptibility. This action follows reviews of the evidence by the UK National Screening Committee (UK NSC) in 2003 and 2012 which, on both occasions, found that the evidence showed that screening for rubella susceptibility during pregnancy did not meet the UK NSC criteria for a screening programme. The Rubella Susceptibility Screening policy review highlighted the following conclusions:

- the low incidence of congenital rubella syndrome
- screening in pregnancy does not contribute to the reduction of risk of the unborn baby in the current pregnancy
- the test may falsely reassure some women that they are not susceptible to rubella infection
- stopping antenatal screening is unlikely to result in increased rates of congenital rubella.

Below are the links to the research and policy document for screening criteria.

RCGP Guide to Supporting Information for Appraisal & Revalidation 2016

Last month saw the publication of the new RCGP Appraisal & Revalidation Guide. This guide has been significantly revised, informed by an extensive survey the RCGP undertook last year. The RCGP recognised that the current requirements had become too cumbersome and bureaucratic with some of the conditions being interpreted in an overly complex way, so that the majority of GPs felt the whole process had become burdensome. There is a welcome shift in emphasis in the guide to a more supportive and less onerous appraisal process. Find the RCGP guide here. 1. on 18 July on any new issues arising between 1 July and the 18 July; and
2. on 1 Aug on any new issues arising between the 18 July and 1 Aug, and any issues that have not been resolved from the last period
